TUESDAY, JANUARY 8, 1745.

...ll from a Private Letter, dated Warſaw, December 19.

"E hear nothing now of the 'Confederacy that it was ſaid 'would be formed by Leave 'of the Court, in order to 'carry into Execution the 'Meaſures that it was ex-'pected the Dyet would have 'approved. The News from 'hence muſt neceſſarily vary, 'according to the Diſpoſi-of ſuch as write it. The Friends of the King, his Miniſtry, flatter themſelves, that Ways and will be found out, to bring Things once more and to enable his Majeſty to fulfil his Engage-to his Allies; to which End, an extraordinary has been ſummon'd to be held in May next, at w; and of this they ſpeak ſo confidently, that a er would conceive the Affair abſolutely certain. oſe who wiſh as well to his Majeſty, and yet are not ately attach'd to the Court, ſee Things in a fferent Light; and cannot help fearing, that the Spirit which occaſioned the laſt Dyet's breaking Confuſion, may appear again, and have the ſame fects in the next. There are many, who very diſapprove the Method taken by the Court to the Intrigues of the Pruſſian Miniſters in the e, becauſe they do not conceive that it has fur-that Sort of Evidence which can be ſaid to the Thing perfectly plain. Here are, ſay they, ſſian Miniſters on the one Hand, demanding Sa-on for an Inſult offer'd to them in their pub-haracters; affirming themſelves abſolutely Inno-And this, at firſt Sight, appears to be a ſupe-Degree of Evidence to thoſe who accuſe them; e, in the very ſame Inſtant they prefer their Ac-on, they confeſs themſelves guilty of a greater than that with which they charge theſe Mini-ſince it is, beyond a Queſtion, a much higher e for a Delegate to a Publick Aſſembly to betray ruſt repoſed in him by his Country, than for a n Miniſter to ſet on Foot ſuch Intrigues as may his Maſter's Purpoſes; and for which, it is not ible he may have his Maſter's Inſtructions. But gives curious and conſiderate People moſt Pain, that the Dyet did not break up by the Confu-which this Affair induced, but was diſſolved by Obſtinacy of ſome of the Nuncios; and who is that, when they meet again, can aſſure us, that will meet in a better Temper? In the mean time, jeſty has raiſed here a very fine Regiment of , and may, probably, raiſe what Forces he pleaſes s own Service, without burthening the Repub-which will be, perhaps, the ſafeſt and ſhorteſt of carrying on the Deſign in which he is em-d, which, in Truth, as nearly concerns Poland ony: And yet ſuch is the Nature of our Govern-ſuch the Diſpoſition of a great Part of our , that, becauſe it concerns the Electorate and the olick equally, they grudge that Poland ſhould bear are of the Expences. It is, at the ſame time, , that the Electorate is in the greateſt Danger; ere is the utmoſt Reaſon to believe, that, if the of his Pruſſian Majeſty ſhould gain the ſlighteſt tage, he would revenge the Diſappointment he et with in Bohemia, by an Irruption into Saxony; ich the King is very apprehenſive."

..., January 4. The French Troops become daily nd more burthenſome to this City. At firſt they Parr, and gave Bills for the reſt; but, at preſent, ke all we have, and give us neither Money nor The City is tax'd at a vaſt Sum, for a Contribu-uch a Sum that it would be equally in our Power half as much, or twice as much; that is to ſay, olutely out of our Power to raiſe any thing like is has been repreſented to the Intendant of the Army, and to the M. Mallebois, but without ct. It has been therefore reſolved to ſend De-to Munich, in order to lay before his Imperial a true State of our Caſe, and to deſire his In-ion; but, inaſmuch, as other Cities have taken p to no manner of Purpoſe, we are not a little enſive that our Deputies will meet with as cold a ion; in which Caſe, we have no Remedy left; uſt be totally undone in a Quarrel in which the ling Parties agree that we have not the ſmalleſt n.

...kfort, January 7. The Vice-Chancellor of the Empire ſet out Yeſterday for Munich, and all the Members of the Aulick Council that are left are preparing to follow him; but whether the Archieves of the Empire are to be transferred thither, remains a very great Doubt; the Elector of Mentz having raiſed many Difficulties upon that Subject. The Count de Baviere, who was Ambaſſador from the Court of France, to his Imperial Majeſty, is arrived here from Munich, in his Way to Paris, viſibly diſguſted; but as to the Cauſe, we are able to ſay nothing at preſent. On the 4th the States of the Upper Rhine opened their Aſſembly here. The Affair upon which they meet, is the French Troops taking Winter-Quarters in the Empire: And it is thought that they will come to as high Reſolutions as the Circle of Swabia; in which caſe there is little Reaſon to queſtion the Empire's declaring poſitively againſt France; which is intirely owing to the exceſſive Exactions of their Troops in theſe Parts, by which the People are everywhere ruined, and all kind of Commerce at a full Stand.

Cologne, January 8. The Marquis de los Rios arrived here by Water on the 3d in the Evening, and the next Morning his Excellency continued his Journey to Brabant. Lieutenant-General Smiſſeart arrived here Yeſterday, at Eight in the Evening, and ſets out this Day for Bonn. The Van-guard of the Dutch Troops, commanded by his Excellency, were to be at Linning on the 6th, and we expect them here To-morrow. All Things are provided for their Subſiſtence; we conſider them as our Deliverers; and the French have, for this Time, miſſed of their Deſign.

Hague, January 13. M. de Dieu has taken his Leave of the States-General, and propoſes to ſet out, without Delay, for the Court of Petersbourg. Things are in great Commotion here, and we really begin to apprehend a French War more than ever. The Count de Sinſheim, his Imperial Majeſty's Miniſter, conferred lately with the Preſident of the Week; and a Report is ſpread, as if he had propoſed ſome Terms for a general Accommodation. Thus much is certain, that the Imperial Court is exceſſively alarmed at the Turn Things have taken in the Empire; where it is viſible, that the March of the French Troops has intirely alienated the Minds of the People from the Emperor. We expect the Earl of Cheſterfield here ſpeedily, to execute a Commiſſion of Importance from the Britiſh Court.

IRELAND.

Dublin, December 29. We hear that Alderman Maccarrol will be appointed Judge Advocate of the Court of Admiralty in this Kingdom, in the room of John Hawkſhaw, Eſq; deceas'd.

Yeſterday Morning arrived the Queen of Angels, a Prize taken ſome Time ago by the Thurlo, and condemn'd at Liverpool; conſign'd to a Merchant of this City for the Diſpoſal of her Cargo, which conſiſts of 60 Tons of French Wine, about 160 Casks of Flower, and ſome Brandy; which is the ſecond Prize, a former having arrived here about a Fortnight ago with a like Cargo.

Laſt Monday Evening, Mr. Bardin, Comedian, was attack'd by four Foot Pads, in Peter's Row, near the Church; but Mr. Bardin drawing out two Pocket Piſtols, two of the Villains made their Eſcape, and he ſeized the other two, who are now in Newgate.

Yeſterday died Mrs. Pocklington, Relict of the late Hon. Baron Pocklington.

SCOTLAND.

Edinburgh, December 31. One Margaret Maxwell, who had been whipt thro' this City three Years ago for Theft, and underwent the ſame Puniſhment on Wedneſday was ſev'night for returning from Baniſhment; having been brought into the Council-Houſe laſt Friday on Suſpicion of further Theft, ſhe, in the preſence of 20 People, while the Magiſtrates were talking of another Buſineſs, being a Girl of Mettle, thought of practiſing a little in her own Way in the mean time, and actually ſtole, from off the Council Table, two Pieces of Camblet, and clapt the ſame between her Thighs, whence they were extracted by the City Serjeants.

Leith, December 29. Arrived the Phœnix, of and from Hamburgh; Hanſon Carel, Maſter.

COUNTRY NEWS.

Briſtol, January 5. Laſt Thurſday Morning the Body of a Man was taken out of the River in the Ropewalk; 'tis ſaid he had the Night before been turn'd out of one of the Sinks of Iniquity in Traitor's Bridge Quarter, his Hat and Wig having ſince been diſcover'd to be there; but no one can tell how he came drowned. On his Forehead was the Appearance of a Blow; and in his Pockets were found ſome Teas. 'Tis ſaid his Name is Bennet, and that he was a Dealer in that Commodity.

LONDON.

They write from Coblentz, that the Deſertion is ſo great from the Army of M. Mallebois, that the Country is no leſs oppreſſed by the Robberies they commit, than by the Contributions levied by the Army itſelf; ſo that the Diſtreſs they are in is abſolutely inexpreſſible; which, on the other hand, occaſions the Peaſants having recourſe to Arms, and murdering, without Mercy, ſuch of the French Troops as are ſo unlucky as to fall into their Hands.

They write from Paris, that M. de Court is reſtored to Favour; and that he is to attend the Duke de Penthievre, who is to command a great Fleet that will aſſemble in the Month of May, but whether at Toulon or Breſt is uncertain.

The ſame Letters ſay, that the Effects brought by the Six India Ships, lately arrived, are worth 26 Millions, which make about 1,200,000 Pound of our Money; notwithſtanding which, the Actions of the Company fall daily, from an Apprehenſion that there is an Edict in the Preſs, by which the King demands a Loan of 50 Crowns on each Action.

They likewiſe add, that, by the Death of the Ducheſs Dowager of Lorrain, the Principality of Commerci returns to the Crown, charged with a Penſion of 40,000 Livres per Ann. to the Princeſs her Daughter, who is Abbeſs of Remiremont.

According to private Letters from the Hague, a Report is current there, that the French Miniſter, in a late Conference, defired, that their High Mightineſſes would obtain, from the Courts of London and Vienna, an Account of the Terms on which they are willing to treat of Peace.

The Speedwell, Iriſh, from Antigua for London, was taken by a French Privateer, in her Paſſage, but ſeparated in bad Weather; and, by contrary Winds, was forc'd up the River of Limerick, where ſhe was ſeiz'd by the King's Officers.

Sunday being Twelfth Day, the ſame was obſerved at Court as Yeſterday; when his Majeſty and the Royal Family, with divers of the Nobility of both Sexes, played at Hazard in the Evening, for the Benefit of the Groom Porter.

At Night there was a Ball for the Lords and Ladies of the Court, according to annual Cuſtom, at which his Majeſty was preſent.

Next Thurſday the Right Hon. the Earl of Cheſterfield will embark on board one of his Majeſty's Yachts for Holland, on Affairs of great Importance.

Yeſterday Sir Watkin William's Wynn, Bart. Knight of the Shire for the County of Denbigh, arrived in Town at his Houſe in Downing Street, Weſtminſter.

As did divers other Members, from their reſpective Seats, in order to give their Attendance at the Meeting of the Parliament, which will be on Thurſday next.

Yeſterday Samuel Owen was committed to Newgate by Mr. Alderman Cokayne, for ſtealing a Flitch of Bacon out of the Houſe of Mr. David Ward, of St. Andrew, Holbourn, Butcher, Value 20 s.

As was likewiſe James Bell to the ſame Place, for ſtealing a Bag of Sugar, of conſiderable Value, off the Cuſtom Houſe Keys, the Property of ſome Perſons unknown, which was taken upon him.
